

Loosening current regulations regarding media ownership is, in my opinion, not in the interest of the public. Further, I believe the FCC should share its research and prospective changes with Congress before enacting any changes.